The Department of Psychology at the University of Maryland invites applicants for a post-doctoral research position, working under Dr. Michele J Gelfand in the Social Decision Making and Organizational Processes (SDOS) group. Applicants should have a recent PhD degree in psychology or related discipline, and should have a research interest in culture and psychology and strong methodological, quantitative, and writing skills.

Dr. Gelfand’s group focuses on cross-cultural research on the strength of norms, conflict, negotiation, revenge, and forgiveness using experimental, field, qualitative, neuroscience, and computational methods, with a focus on the U.S., Middle East, Europe, and Asia. Responsibilities of the position include but are not limited to designing and running field and experimental studies, managing research assistants, analyzing data, writing manuscripts, preparing research grants, among other duties.

The position can begin as early as May 2016. The position is advertised as one year, but may be extended for two years depending on funding availability and performance.

To apply, please submit a CV, a cover letter, a personal statement, and the names and contact details of 3 references to mjgelfand@gmail.com Applicants should submit materials before April 1st to be competitive. University of Maryland is an equal opportunity employer and salary and benefits are competitive.